UNKNOWN SUBJECT, Also Known As
Lev Davidovich Bronstein;
BETTY NAOMI GOLDSTEIN FRIEDAN - VICTIM

On February 1, 1977, Betty Friedan, a spokeswoman for various women's rights organizations, received the attached envelope and letter at her New York City residence.

Ms. Friedan advised that her true name is Betty Naomi Goldstein Friedan, and that her date of birth is February 4, 1921. Ms. Friedan further advised that she was scheduled to appear at Dayton's Department Store, Minneapolis, Minnesota, at 12:00 Noon on February 2, 1977, in order to speak before a group of Twin Cities women. Her speech was concerning the Equal Rights Amendment and other feminist topics. Ms. Friedan stated that the name Lev Davidovich Bronstein is unfamiliar to her, and she has not received any letters of this nature in the past.

Contact with Glen Dornfeld, Security Superintendent, Dayton's Department Stores, Lieutenant [redacted] Minneapolis Police Department, and [redacted] U. S. Secret Service, was unproductive in an effort to identify anyone utilizing the name Lev Davidovich Bronstein.

The World Book Encyclopedia lists Lev Davidovich Bronstein as the true name of Leon Trotsky.

The Minneapolis Police Department afforded appropriate coverage of Dayton's Department Store and conducted a search in an attempt to locate any type of explosive or incendiary device, with negative results. Glen Dornfeld, Dayton's Security, advised that Ms. Friedan's appearance and speech had been canceled as a security precaution due to the bomb threat.

Copies of this report are submitted to New York due to their interest in the investigation, inasmuch as Ms. FRIEDAN resides within their Division.

AUSA MEL I. DICKSTEIN, Minneapolis, Minnesota, was initially contacted on 2/2/77, regarding this matter and has been apprised periodically of the developments as the investigation progressed. He explained the opinion that while it was a violation of Title 18, U.S. Code, Section 844 (e) and/or Title 18, U.S. Code, Section 875 (c), that he did not believe any successful prosecution could be sustained inasmuch as this was an isolated threat and no action was apparently taken to carry out the threat. However, he requested that attempts be made to identify the writer of the letter if at all possible, and that he would not decline at this time.

Title: UNKNOWN SUBJECT, ALSO KNOWN AS
LEV DAVIDOVICH BRONSTEIN;
BETTY NAOMI GOLDSTEIN FRIEDAN - VICTIM

Character: BOMB THREAT - EXTORTION

Synopsis:

On 2/1/77, BETTY NAOMI GOLDSTEIN FRIEDAN, popularly known as BETTY FRIEDAN, DOB 2/4/21, a spokeswoman for various women's rights organizations, received a threatening letter at her New York City residence. Ms. FRIEDAN was scheduled to appear at Dayton's Department Store, MP, MN, on 2/2/77, to speak before a group of Twin Cities women. The letter received by Ms. FRIEDAN threatened a bomb explosion at Dayton's if she in fact followed through with her planned speech. The letter was signed by LEV DAVIDOVICH BRONSTEIN. Local, State and Federal authorities were notified and Dayton's security alerted. A search of the premises failed to locate any explosive or suspicious device. Dayton's management canceled Ms. FRIEDAN's speech during the morning of 2/2/77, to avoid any possible disturbance. Ms. FRIEDAN's schedule in the Minneapolis area was otherwise unaffected and she departed MP during the evening of 2/2/77, without further incident. One suspect, [REDACTED] was developed, however, subsequently eliminated. Ms. FRIEDAN returned to MP 3/23/77 for a speech before the Minnesota Press Club. This speech occurred without incident. No further threats or letters have been received. LEV DAVIDOVICH BRONSTEIN has not been identified. No latent fingerprints were developed on the letter or envelope and no suspect was developed from the known anonymous letter file.

DETAILS:

This matter was predicated upon a telephone call from GLEN DORNFELD, (former Special Agent, FBI), Security Superintendent, Dayton's Department Store, 700 Nicollet Mall, Minneapolis, Minnesota. Mr. DORNFELD advised that BETTY FRIEDAN, the noted Women's Movement leader and author, was scheduled to arrive at Minneapolis by a Northwest Orient Airlines flight #241 from New York City, New York. Ms. FRIEDAN was scheduled to speak at the 8th floor auditorium of Dayton's concerning the Equal Rights Amendment. Mr. DORNFELD stated that [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] called Dayton's and stated that Ms. FRIEDAN had received an extremely threatening letter concerning her forthcoming speech. The threat was basically that a bomb would go off if she did in fact speak in Minneapolis.

BETTY NAOMI GOLDSTEIN FRIEDAN, residence and business address One Lincoln Plaza, Apartment 40K, 20 West 64th Street, New York, New York, telephone number 212-799-4060, was interviewed at the Marquette Inn, Minneapolis, Minnesota, concerning a letter she had received in the mail at her home on February 1, 1977.

Mrs. FRIEDAN provided the original letter, type written on white paper, beginning "Marxian Slut, NAOMI GOLDSTEIN," and ending "LEV DAVIDOVICH BRONSTEIN, Vietnam Veterans," and the envelope addressed to "Marxian Sister BETTY NAOMI GOLDSTEIN FRIEDAN, One Lincoln Plaza, New York City, New York, 10023."

Mrs. FRIEDAN stated that she has gotten "crackpot, hate-type letters" in the past concerning her outspoken attitude on the Woman's Movement, Equal Rights Amendment (ERA), and Abortion Issues, which were vague-type letters saying, "we'll get you" and so forth. She stated that this was the first letter she had received which specified a bomb threat on her life and at a specific place, which is Dayton's 8th Floor Auditorium where she is lecturing today. She stated that she was quite upset having received this type of threat on her life. She received this letter on February 1, 1977, at approximately 11:00 a.m. at her residence.

In discussing the letter with Mrs. FRIEDAN, she stated that she did not think that because the writer used her full name, including maiden name, that it indicated someone who knew her from childhood. She advised that recently an article, stating her complete name, residence, and background, appeared in a Jewish Magazine entitled, "Lilith," and it is possible the writer could have gotten her name and address from this article. She stated that in addition to being outspoken and being considered one of the individuals who started the Woman's Movement, she has recently spoken out for Israel and against the Palestinian Liberation Organization (PLO). During the past year, she, along with LEONARD BERNSTEIN and others, signed a letter which appeared in the New York Times, speaking out in defense of Israel and protesting the PLO being admitted to the United Nations.

Mrs. FRIEDAN stated that within the last few months an organization by the name of Briera started "courting her" and she later felt they were using her because she was so well known and Jewish. Recently she learned that the organization was anti-Semetic, and at a meeting she raised questions concerning the group, their purpose, and where they were getting their money to operate and became outspoken against the organization. She stated that she had no proof of this, but felt that the organization could be a front for the PLO. She stated that she is not normally connected with this type of movement, however within the last month had resisted the PLO movement.

Mrs. FRIEDAN stated that she felt this letter had anti-Semetic overtones and was sent to her possibly because of her being outspoken against the PLO and not so much her involvement in the Woman's Rights Movement. She stated that she never uses the name NAOMI GOLDSTEIN, and inasmuch as the name NAOMI is Jewish, she felt this was the reason that the letter was addressed to her in this manner.

Mrs. FRIEDAN stated that in addition to herself handling the letter, she believed that her secretary, [redacted] Public Relations Department, Dayton's Department Store, Minneapolis, had handled the letter. She stated that her secretary made a copy of the letter before she left New York on February 1, 1977.

b6
b7C

She advised that she believes she was fingerprinted in 1972 by the New York Police Department on the West Side, when she was a delegate to the National Convention. She stated that she doubts [redacted] was ever fingerprinted and did not know if her secretary was ever fingerprinted.

[redacted] and is presently home for semester break. She stated that [redacted]

[redacted]
telephone number is [redacted]

Mrs. FRIEDAN stated that on Saturday night, January 29, 1977, a bottle of liquor exploded in her liquor cabinet in the living room, and at the time she did not think anything of the incident. She stated that the bottles had been in the cabinet for approximately two months and that there were no recent purchases placed in the cabinet. She stated that she relates this information in view of the fact that she received the threatening letter on Tuesday at her residence and did not know if the two incidents were in anyway related.

MP 174-1016

Mrs. FRIEDAN stated that she was not returning to her residence until Friday, February 4, 1977; that she has a lecture scheduled for 8:00 p.m., February 3, 1977, at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisconsin and would be travelling to Madison, Wisconsin tonight. She would be staying the nights of February 2 and 3, 1977 with a friend, [redacted] office telephone number [redacted] residence telephone number [redacted]

Mrs. FRIEDAN stated that in addition to her secretary [redacted] and [redacted] New York City, telephone number [redacted] would know her travel itinerary when she was not at her residence.

BETTY NAOMI GOLDSTEIN FRIEDAN, Apartment 40K, 1 Lincoln Plaza, 20 West 64th Street, New York, New York (NY), telephone number 212-799-4060, furnished the following information at the above address:

Prior to the receipt, on February 1, 1977, of a threatening letter at her residence, Mrs. FRIEDAN had received no mail she would consider threatening in any matter. She has received the usual attempts to dissuade her from speaking regarding rights for women and ratification of the Equal Rights amendment. FRIEDAN has never received any anti-Semitic mail, although she has spoken out on a number of occasions for Israel. FRIEDAN does not consider herself an activist of any sort and is involved with no group. In fact, she has incurred the enmity of the extremists in the women's movement because she publicly disavowed their radical leftist position on several topics.

FRIEDAN recalled that a group called "Breitra" had tried to get her endorsement, but FRIEDAN had an uneasy feeling about them and publicly questioned where their finances came from. On one occasion, approximately a year ago, FRIEDAN completed a speaking engagement at the University of Illinois and was told by a large lesbian group that they would get her.

Other than these instances, FRIEDAN was unable to recall any occasion or receipt of any mail or telephone call that she would consider threatening.

FRIEDAN then furnished the following descriptive information:

Date of Birth	February 4, 1921
Place of Birth	Peoria, Illinois
Occupation	Writer
Employment	Self-employed

The following investigation was conducted by Special Agent [redacted] at Minneapolis, Minnesota, on February 2, 1977:

Contact with GLEN DORNFELD, Security Superintendent, Dayton's Department Stores, Lieutenant [redacted] Minneapolis Police Department, and [redacted] U.S. Secret Service, were unproductive in an effort to identify anyone utilizing the name LEV DAVIDOVICH BRONSTEIN.

b6
b7C

The World Book Encyclopedia lists LEV DAVIDOVICH BRONSTEIN as the true name of LEON TROTSKY.

The Minneapolis Police Department afforded appropriate coverage of Dayton's Department Store and conducted a search in an attempt to locate any type of explosive or incendiary device, with negative results. GLEN DORNFELD, Dayton's Security, advised that Ms. FRIEDAN's appearance and speech had been canceled as a security precaution due to the bomb threat.

Ms. FRIEDAN's schedule, other than her appearance at Dayton's Department Store, was uninterrupted, and she was expected to depart the Twin Cities area during the evening of February 2, 1977.

[redacted] advised that on February 2, 1977, she had been at work at her desk in the Security Office located on the second floor of Dayton's at approximately 11:05 AM, when she received a telephone call from the Information Booth located on the first floor. She stated that the woman at the Information Desk stated,

"There is a man here, talk to him for me."

Next, a man came on the telephone who talked with a slight accent and said, "Get me those police in car 7731."

[redacted] responded, "Who are you?"

The man said very impatiently, "Never mind!" "Get me the police in the store unless you want the whole place to blow!"

She stated that she then responded, "Just a minute. I'll transfer you."

When the girl in the Information Booth came back on the line, she stated that the man was gone.

[redacted] stated that she immediately contacted a Dayton's Store detective and told him to go down to the Information Booth as a man had just made a bomb threat.

[redacted] stated that she was aware of the increased security activity in Dayton's due to the bomb threat toward BETTY FRIEDAN, and was naturally concerned when she received this second threat. She advised that should she be needed for any further information, she could be contacted at her home, [redacted] telephone [redacted], or at her office at Dayton's, [redacted]

The following investigation was conducted by Special Agent [redacted]:

[redacted]
[redacted] Mankato, Minnesota, were contacted on March 16, 1977, and advised they are well acquainted with [redacted] who has been committed to the State Hospital at St. Peter, Minnesota, and subsequently spent some time [redacted]
They said ordinarily sign-out registers are maintained concerning the people residing here; however, there is no longer any record to show when [redacted] would have departed Mankato for the Twin City area in late January 1977.

[redacted] said he believes [redacted] was in Mankato until late in the afternoon, January 30, 1977, when he left town for the Twin Cities by bus. Both [redacted] reviewed the letter which had been postmarked at St. Paul, Minnesota, on January 29, 1977, which had been sent to BETTY FRIEDAN in New York City and which letter makes reference to FRIEDAN's appearance on February 2, 1977 at Dayton's Auditorium in Minneapolis.
Both stated that [redacted] is "flaky," but they did not believe he would be capable of preparing such a letter as that sent to FRIEDAN. They noted [redacted] seems to be a volatile individual but most of his leanings seem to be [redacted] since [redacted] [redacted] but he has never expressed any type of anti-Jewish or anti-Marxist views as are stated in the questioned letter.

They stated several telephone calls have recently been received from [redacted] an attorney from the Public Defenders Office at the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, representing [redacted] who is still being held in the County Jail at Minneapolis.
They noted that [redacted] is attempting to intercede in [redacted] behalf in order that he might be released

The following investigation was conducted by Special Agent [REDACTED] at Minneapolis, Minnesota, on March 22, 1977:

Detective Sergeant [REDACTED], Minneapolis Police Department, was contacted in regard to the current status of [REDACTED] advised that [REDACTED] is currently undergoing psychiatric evaluation at St. Peter State Hospital, St. Paul, Minnesota, and that depending upon the outcome of the psychiatric examination, [REDACTED] is tentatively scheduled for trial in Hennepin County District Court, Minneapolis, charged with making terroristic threats. This charge stems from his threatening comments to Dayton's employees during the morning of February 2, 1977, and in no way is based on the letter received by Ms. FRIEDAN.

The following investigation was conducted
by Special Agent [] at Minneapolis, Minnesota:

On February 2, 1977, Assistant United States Attorney (AUSA) MEL DICKSTEIN was contacted and apprised of the fact that BETTY FRIEDAN had received a threatening letter, postmarked Minneapolis, Minnesota, and received by her at her New York City home. Mr. DICKSTEIN was shown copies of the letter, which threatened a bomb explosion at Dayton's auditorium if Ms. FRIEDAN in fact spoke before a group of local Minneapolis women on February 2, 1977 as scheduled..

AUSA DICKSTEIN advised that this would appear to be a violation of Title 18, Sections 844 (e) and 875 (c). Mr. DICKSTEIN requested that the investigation continue in an effort to identify the writer of this letter.

TO: DIRECTOR, FBI (174-7445)

Re Minneapolis report of SA [] dated 4/1/77.

For the information of the Bureau, during March and April, 1977, the New York Office has been in periodic contact with Ms. FRIEDAN and her staff. As of 4/25/77, Ms. FRIEDAN advised that she has received no additional threatening letters, telephone calls, or any type of communication which she would describe as being threatening or obscene. Ms. FRIEDAN stated that in view of the fact that she has traveled to the Twin Cities area of Minneapolis-St. Paul on several occasions since 2/1/77 and has received no further threats, she considers the letter postmarked from St. Paul dated 1/29/77, as an isolated hoax.

Minneapolis has maintained contact with Minneapolis Police, Secret Service, and other logical sources in an attempt to identify the writer of the letter signed "LEV DAVIDOVICH BRONSTEIN" received by Ms. FRIEDAN in New York on 2/1/77. To date, no one has been identified as the writer and no positive information has been developed.

The letter and envelope which had been submitted to the FBI Laboratory for handwriting comparison and fingerprint analysis have been returned and the Laboratory was unable to develop anything of substantial lead value.
